FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Tyco Security Products takes its technology on the road

'Inspiration on the Road' presentations provide technology deep-dives in key markets

WESTFORD, MA, January 20, 2014 — Tyco Security Products, part of Tyco (NYSE: TYC), the world's largest pure-play fire protection and security company, announces its "Inspiration on the Road" series of in-depth technology presentations highlighting access control, video, and integrated solutions for end users, integrators, distributors and consultants around the United States and Canada.

The free events will allow attendees to meet with the sales and technical teams from the various Tyco Security Products brands, join discussions, and offer feedback on the company's current technology and product roadmap. In addition, there will be hands-on demonstrations of security solutions from the Kantech, American Dynamics, Software House and Exacq Technologies brands to complement the presentations.

In all, 19 cities – 14 within the United States and 5 in Canada – Tyco Security Products will host these unique educational opportunities for new and existing users over a 10-month period. Among the cities hosting the one-day roadshows are Raleigh, N.C.; Atlanta, Ga.; Orlando, Fla.; Irving, Texas, and 10 other key cities.

Tyco Security Products will cover its full range of unified security solutions in its presentations, highlighting access control solutions from Kantech, intuitive video management system (VMS) software from Exacq Technologies, security and event management from Software House, and American Dynamics' end-to-end IP solutions, along with myriad integrations with third-party partners.
